How to Get Help with Back Rent

Three Basic conditions for receiving outside assistance:

- You must have a “housing emergency” which means your landlord is taking you to housing court and you will be evicted if you don’t pay the back rent owed.
- You have a good reason for falling behind in the rent: You or a family member lost a job, or received a reduction in hours/pay, or had a medical emergency, or there was a death in the family.
- Your household income is sufficient to pay the rent in the future.

For a rent arrears referral to a charity, call the Housing Court Answers hotline at 212-962-4795 (Monday-Thursday, 9am to 5pm)

Charities and community based organizations receive Emergency Food and Shelter Program (EFSP, formerly FEMA) money from the federal government each year. In general, this money is given as a grant and does not have to be paid back, but it is limited to one month’s rent. Call the number above for a referral, or ask at your local community center or elected officials’ offices.

For a One Shot Deal, go to the HRA office in Housing Court with your eviction papers, or go the Rental Assistance Unit at your local work center (call 311 for the location)

NYC’s Human Resource Administration gives out emergency rent assistance known as One Shot Deals. The HRA rent arrears assistance is not limited to one month, and, for most tenants, it is a loan which must be paid back. Tenants receiving Supplemental Security Income (SSI) and seniors can get grants that don’t have to be paid back. Assistance to tenants on public assistance is limited. One Shots are also available for tenants with utility cut-off notices.

Other resources for people behind on rent:

- Rent arrears assistance and ongoing assistance is available to people living with AIDS or HIV. Call HIV/AIDS Services Administration (HASA) at 212-971-0626 or visit the HRA office in Housing Court. (In Manhattan, 111 Centre Street, Room 521)
- Tenants with rent arrears sometimes qualify for ongoing public assistance. Go to the HRA office in Housing Court or your local work center (call 311). Families on public assistance may get help from a program called FEPS. You can get information about various programs from your local community based organization, elected officials office, union, 311, or Housing Court Answers at 212-962-4795.
- Seniors might qualify for rent freezes (Senior Citizen Rent Increase Exemption) which will allow you to catch up on the rent. Call 311 for the application or visit a senior center.
- Disabled tenants might qualify for the Disability Rent Increase Exemption which will freeze the rent and allow you to catch up on arrears. Call 311 for an application or call the Center for the Independence of the Disabled (CIDNY) at 646-442-1520.
- Local houses of worship and neighborhood community groups sometimes assist with back rent.
