

June, 2019 District Manager's Report

Agency Reports:

30th Pct Reported: Winston McKay, 40, was walking his dog near Amsterdam Avenue and West 146 Street early Monday morning when he was shot in the upper leg, McKay was then rushed to Harlem Hospital, and later died of his injuries.

Investigators have released photos from surveillance footage taken at a building on the same street of the shooting in an attempt to identify the gunman. Police said the suspect was involved in a dispute with another man in which he pointed a rifle at the man and threatened to shoot him.

It was reported when the man ignored the gunman's threats and walked away from him, the gunman fired one shot. That shot missed its target and struck McKay, police said. The NYPD is actively trying to identify a suspect wanted in connection with the fatal shooting.

Anyone with information is asked to call the NYPD's Crime Stoppers Hotline at 1-800-577-TIPS (8477).

NYC Department of City Planning Advocates for Privately Owned Public Space and The Municipal Art Society of New York Announce New NYC POPS Logo

NEW YORK – Department of City Planning (DCP) Director Marisa Lago, Advocates for Privately Owned Public Space (APOPS) President Jerold S. Kayden, and The Municipal Art Society of New York (MAS) President Elizabeth Goldstein today announced a new logo to be displayed at New York City's more than 550 plazas, arcades and other Privately-Owned Public Spaces (POPS).

The logo was one of 607 logo design submissions from nearly 60 countries in an international design competition sponsored by DCP, APOPS and MAS. The design matches the City's goal of creating inviting public spaces with an abundance of amenities, with seating being a priority.

The selected logo depicting playfully-arranged chairs was designed by Emma Reed, a New York-based graphic designer. The design was selected following an international logo design competition.

A zoning text amendment will be introduced this week to codify requirements for posting of signs that incorporate the new POPS logo. The text will also allow for tables and chairs to be placed in POPS governed by old regulations that did not permit them.

inspired me to submit a design!" said Emma Reed, designer of the new logo. She is a 2015 graduate of Syracuse University and has worked as a graphic designer in New York City for several years.

POPS are the result of City zoning regulations aimed at ensuring that the densest areas of the city offer outdoor and indoor places that are usable by the public without charge. The POPS program has produced nearly 3.8 million square feet of additional public space in the City – equivalent to roughly 66 football fields, 13 Union Squares or half of Governors Island.

POPS signage will be required to include the new logo, a statement that the space is open to the public, and other helpful information about the space, such as the hours it is open and amenities provided.

The new logo establishes a symbol for the city's wide variety of POPS and old POPS logos will be gradually replaced. The public can expect to see the new official logo at POPS beginning early next year, and all POPS are required to post the new logo and other public information – including how to register a complaint about a POPS – by mid-2021.

Competition details:

In addition to being displayed online, all the logo submissions were shown at a public exhibit in March in New York City. Through extensive traditional and social media outreach, members of the public were encouraged to vote for their favorite logos. Around 17,000 votes were cast in total. A seven-person panel, along with the public vote, selected three awardees, each of whom will receive $2,000. The panel also selected two notable mentions. Per the competition rules, Director Lago chose "Have a Seat" from the top three designs to be New York City's official POPS logo. Its designer will receive an additional $2,000. Financial awards were provided through a gift by Knoll.

The two other awardees in the top three were Gensler's New York City Brand Design studio for a design titled "More Than a Tree" and John Schettino for "Constellation." In addition, the two notable mentions were Munich illustrator Derek Pommer's "The Statue of Liberty Having a Break" and "POPS Noll" by Ryan Crooks of Atlanta, Georgia.

Details about the competition and images of the three-awardee logos and two notable mentions can be found at www.popslogo.nyc.

The seven members of the panel who, along with the public vote, selected the awardees and notable mentions are:

- Jerold S. Kayden, Frank Backus Williams Professor of Urban Planning and Design, Harvard University and President, Advocates for Privately Owned Public Space (Presiding Panelist)
- Glen Cummings, Creative Director, MTWTF
- Katherine Farley, Chair, Lincoln Center Board of Directors
- Elizabeth Goldstein, President, The Municipal Art Society of New York
- Marisa Lago, Chair, New York City Planning Commission and Director, New York City Department of City Planning
- Kim Mathews, Principal Emerita, MNLA
- Justin Garrett Moore, Executive Director, New York City Public Design Commission

POPS are spaces dedicated to public use and enjoyment. They are developed, owned, and maintained by private property owners at no cost to the City. The city's 550 POPS come in many shapes and sizes, located both outdoors and indoors. All POPS are now required to include public space signage, informing New Yorkers and visitors about hours of access, required amenities such as seating, and to report any complaints to 311.

Manhattan DA's Office Reported: The Immigrant Affairs Program was created to address the victimization of immigrants. Unscrupulous attorneys, fake attorneys, and agencies that offer "services" that they have no intention or ability to provide. The Manhattan DA's Office aims to protect individuals from such crimes; regardless of their legal status. DEP Reported (See Stats):

The New York City Department of Environmental Protection (DEP) recently proposed a 2.31 percent increase in Fiscal Year 2020 (FY20) water rate to the New York City Water Board. The proposed rate would keep the cost of water in New York City well below the national average. Since Mayor de Blasio made the commitment to shrink, then eliminate, the rental payment from the water system, $792 million of ratepayer funds have stayed in the system, helping to fund critical programs while keeping rates low for property owners and businesses. The proposed rate increase is subject to review and approval by the Water Board.

The proposal also maintains existing affordability programs for low-income homeowners and multi-family housing properties that are expected to benefit as many as 60,000 customers and 40,000 units, respectively. In addition, the proposal recommends freezing the minimum charge at $1.27 per day for the sixth consecutive year for those customers who use fewer than 92 gallons per day.

What the Proposed Rate Would Mean for an Average Customer - If the 2.31% water rate increase is adopted by the Board:

- A typical single-family homeowner will see an increase from $945/year to $967/year for water and sewer bills—an increase of $1.82/month (based on an average consumption of 70,000 gallons of water per year).
- A typical multi-family unit with metered billing will see an increase from $702/year/unit to $718/year/unit—an increase of $1.35/month (based on an average consumption of 52,000 gallons of water per year).

DOT Reported:

- Resurfacing season has started please report any areas within the district to DOT;
- Discussions will continue with MCB9 regarding the implementation of bike lanes on Amsterdam Ave. (bet. 110th – 155th Streets);

DOT will be implementing new crossings at the following locations:

- Install enhanced crossings at Claremont Ave. and LaSalle St. including high visibility crosswalks and yield-to-pedestrian signage;
- Add a painted curb extension at Claremont Ave. and La Salle St.;
- Add stop signs on Claremont Ave. at W. 119th Str. With new high visibility crosswalks;
- Install 30ft of daylighting on both Claremont Ave. approaches to W. 119th St.;
- Move truck loading zone 30ft south on Claremont Ave.

Hamilton Place Plaza Proposal has been Approved to expand Public Space; improve pedestrian circulation; Enhance safety; Shorten pedestrian crossings. Work to begin July of 2019.

MBPO Reported: In celebration of the legacy and vibrancy of the Manhattan's LGBTQ community, the Manhattan Borough President is hosting a Pride Ball in Harlem.

It was stated Manhattan has long been an epicenter of LGBTQ history, community, and activism—from the Stonewall Rebellion 50 years ago to Harlem's iconic ball scene. Pride Month will be extra special because they'll be welcoming hundreds of thousands of LGBTQ people from around the globe for World Pride.
